

Monday, 21 July 2008

Media Statement

Tallai mansion a triumph of luxury

INGLES Homes is celebrating after winning the House Of The Year honour at the Queensland Master Builders Association regional awards on Saturday night.

The Surfers Paradise-based Ingles Homes won the top award for a four level, architecturally designed mansion built at Tallai.

The Graeme Ingles-led company also took out the regional QMBA award for the Best Individual Home Over $5 million.

The wins caps off an amazing run of awards for Ingles Homes.

Two weeks ago the company won six Housing Industry Association awards for the Gold Coast region and last week the company also won the Queensland Master Builders Association honour for the best heritage style home at the Sunshine Coast.

All the HIA honours were awarded for works associated with the home at Tallai. The HIA awards that Ingles collected included the Best Bathroom over $15,000; Bathroom of the Year; Best custom built house over $4million; Custom built house of the year; the Colorbond most innovative use of steel award and the Outdoor project of the year.

Ingles Group managing director Graeme Ingles said he could not be any more pleased with his team.

“I am extraordinarily proud of their efforts,” said Mr Ingles. “To have won three QMBA awards and six HIA awards within a month is an incredible achievement and is testimony to the expertises and skills of our team.

“Ingles Homes is only as good as the people and the suppliers who work here and we are privileged to have so many talented individual working with us.”

Mr Ingles said the award-winning Tallai house was built on an extremely steep and sloping block to take advantage of the panoramic views.

“The home at Tallai was conceived to be a landmark residence in one of the Gold Coast’s most prestigious communities and I think it is clear that we have achieved that,” said Mr Ingles. “The construction of the three-storey home presented enormous challenges because of the site.

“However, the result is a wonderfully appealing home that features a unique, contemporary appearance and yet is a very easy-to-live-in family home.

For further information contact Marshall Hall on 0404195896 or via email on marshall@barepublicity.com.au