

Ingles takes three awards;

INGLES Homes is celebrating after winning three Housing Industry Association awards at the regional judging in Rockhampton.

The privately-owned Queensland home builder won awards for the Best Project Home up to $300,000 and the Best Project Home over $300,000.

The company was also honoured with the Project Home of the Year title for its Jordana design, which is a two-storey, four-bedroom home.

The latest awards cap an amazing run of wins for Ingles Homes. This year the company has also won six Housing Industry Association awards in the Gold Coast region, two Queensland Master Builders Association Awards on the Gold Coast and another QMBA award on the Sunshine Coast.

Ingles Group managing director Graeme Ingles said he could not be prouder of his team.

"I am extraordinarily proud of the team's effort," he said.

"Ingles Homes is only as good as the people and the suppliers who work in our team and we are privileged to have so many talented individuals working with us.

"To have won three QMBA awards and nine HIA awards within two months is an incredible achievement and is testimony to the expertises and skills of our team."

Ingles Homes has more than 40 home designs on offer but the Jordana, named after Mr Ingles' daughter, has proven to be a real winner.
